

‘The tail of the Phoenix’

Once, I heard
‘love is a flame that cannot be tamed’, but I believe,
love is more than just a flame.

True love is just like the Phoenix, that will surge from ashes,
if it must,
and will glow bright and strong,
as long as it lives.

And, have you ever wondered,
how does love start?
Have you?
Because I have,
and I think,
the answer comes
from love’s nature.

How do you start liking,
loving someone?
By curiosity.
It may sound simple,
but it is simple.

Just like a baby
who starts knowing the world, decides to take risks
to satisfy curiosity.

But, what is curiosity?
Nothing less than
the tail of the Phoenix, because,
it is the only part
of the magnificent bird that will never,
never,
be extinguished.
And that is what creates and keeps
love alive.
